Brownfields Redevelopment

May 2018 Newsflash #2

CBN 2018 Conference

CBN Conference 2018 - the MUST ATTEND Brownfield Event of the Year - Early Bird Registration Ends Today at Midnight!

Why is this a MUST ATTEND event? Because this year, you will have the opportunity to play a major part in setting the course of brownfields in Canada for the near future.

That's what we're offering you at our 2018 National Brownfield Summit: Charting the Future, being held in Toronto Wednesday, June 13, at Oakham House, Ryerson University. This could be the most important brownfields event this year, as we will start by reviewing the progress made since the 2003 National Round Table on the Economy and the Environment (NRTEE) report and deciding where to go from here.

We'll begin by unveiling the results of the CBN/Ryerson survey on the state of brownfields and a companion study of brownfield regulations across Canada. Then you can participate by giving your feedback as we set the direction for the future. What has improved since the NRTEE report? What still needs to be addressed? What new concerns have developed? In an interactive working session, with plenty of opportunities for discussion with your peers from all sectors of the industry, we'll chart the course of brownfield redevelopment in Canada. Early bird registration (a saving of $50 off the regular rate) ends tonight at midnight, so hurry and register on the website.

From the survey:

Did you know that most respondents think we should have a national brownfield inventory? At the Conference, we invite you to share your thoughts on how to build this!

What else is in store? Here's a quick overview:

- Cross-country Check-up: this year, we'll be focusing on new and pending regulations for excess soils
- Legal Update: John Georgakopoulos of Willms & Shier Environmental Lawyers LLP will highlight key cases affecting brownfields
- Emerging Technology: four rapid-fire sessions making sure you're up to date on new remediation technologies
